The bride was attended by Miss Marguerite Hall, niece of the groom, as maid of honor. The bride was attired in a gown of hand embroidered, white net trimmed with lace. Mr. and Mrs. Klein left on the 9:27 express for New York and upon their return from their honeymoon they will reside at 1224 East Main street. The bride wore a gown of white silk trimmed with Irish lace and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaid wore a gown of azure blue and carried a bouquet of carnations. John Coffey was best man. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 51 Seymour street. Three large tables were laid for the guests. The parlor was decorated with palms and ferns. BILTZ AGAINST STATE HIGHWAYS

They Have to be Built According to Specifications Approved by State.

THE STATUS OF FAIRFIELD AVENUE

MACADAM WAS LAID UNDER SUPERVISION OF FRANK W. BEERS, BILTZ SAYS, AND ACCORDING TO SPECIFICATIONS—"GREEN" SEWER POSTPONES COMPLETION OF CONSTRUCTION.

Director of Public Works Charles F. A. Biltz is not in favor of the city appropriating any more money for state highway construction. He said in an interview with a Farmer reporter yesterday afternoon: "I shall not advocate any more money for State highway construction for I do not believe it is any benefit to the city to secure the funds offered by the State because the city is obliged to build the roads according to the State's specifications." As to statements that the macadam laid on one side of Fairfield extension would not be accepted by the State, Director Biltz said that this macadam was laid according to State Highway Commissioner Macdonald's specifications and that it was laid under the supervision of Inspector Frank W. Beers of this city.

Mr. Biltz says the reason that the macadam was laid on only one side of the road was that a sewer had been built on one side and he was not going to build a roadway over a "green" trench.

BREWERS MAY LEASE SALOONS WITHOUT VOIDING LICENSES

A corporation engaged in the business of brewing, which holds one license in its own name is not "interested," within the meaning of the statute, in the business conducted by a liquor dealer to whom it has leased a bar and fixtures.

This decision, which is a body blow at an important portion of some drastic legislation passed by the General Assembly in 1907, was made by Judge Lucien P. Burpee, yesterday, as part of the finding in the appeal of Judge E. K. Nicholson, representing the Bridgeport Law Enforcement League, from the County Commission.

The commissioners on Dec. 20 last, issued a license to Michael McPadden at 645 Water street. Nicholson contended that because McPadden had leased his fixtures from the Yale Brewing Company, he was not the bona fide owner of the business, as the law required, and that having entered into the lease the company was an "interested" person.

Judge Burpee finds against both contentions, says that the county commissioners did not exceed their powers and the license to McPadden will stand.

Holland Bennett
Letters Received

(Special from United Press.)
Boston, June 17.—Letters, written several days before his mysterious disappearance from the steamer Berlin between Genoa and Naples, were received to-day from Holland Bennett, the young Boston attorney who was killed suddenly on his honeymoon. The letters were addressed to his father, Josiah Q. Bennett of Cambridge and were mailed in Rome and Florence. They cheerfully describe the experiences of Bennett and his bride and bore the information that they intended returning to Boston in time for class day at Harvard.

MORSE STARTS TO SQUARE OFF DEBTS

New York, June 17.—After languishing in the Tombs for months after his conviction of being a bank wrecker, Charles W. Morse, the former Ice King and Wall street financier, is today at liberty until October 9, at which time the United States Circuit of Appeals will decide whether Morse is entitled to a new trial. In the meantime he is out on $125,000 bail.

Morse spent last night at his Fifth avenue home for the first time since his incarceration on November 5. Early today he hurried to the financial district, where he intends to open an office and try to rehabilitate his shattered credit.

"I have done suppressing things in the papers," said Morse, "and I expect to repeat performances. I don't know just how far I shall be able to square off my debts by October since that won't give me a great deal of time. But you may rest assured I will be able to raise enough money to settle a large part if not all of my indebtedness."

Morse is as happy as a child over his temporary freedom. It is confident that he will be granted a new trial.
